Serving The United Nations in emerging markets

Bukkehave has been a registered supplier to the United Nations since the UN was founded after World War II.

What does Bukkehave offer to the United Nations in the developing world?

Our work with supplying the UN is widely spread across the globe and includes UN operations involved in aid and emergency, as well as development projects in emerging markets.

Bukkehave has been the authorized distributor of several vehicle manufacturers since the beginning of the 1990s, when the first distributorship was appointed to us by Mitsubishi Motors Corporation.

Since establishing these distributorships, Bukkehave has maintained an industry-leading ability to service the United Nations and its agencies by offering a full range of export products for the implementation of projects in the developing world.

Recent projects include the supply of ambulances, vehicles, trucks, heavy equipment and spare parts to support UN programs in Sudan and armored vehicles for UN operations in Afghanistan.

Bukkehave partnering up with the UN

Bukkehave is registered in The United Nations Global Marketplace – also known as the UNGM.

Bukkehave is also a registered supplier (level 4) to The United Nations Procurement Division.

Ever since the early 1990s, Bukkehave has been listed as authorized supplier of various brands in the UN catalogue – which is now online and better known as UN Web Buy.

Some organizations prefer doing their procurement by using UN Web Buy, while others prefer direct contact with the manufacturers or their distributors. For example, we have Long Term Agreements with several large UN organizations for the supply of both motorcycles and light vehicles. The choice is yours!
